Shopmen's Strike is
Assuming Larger
ProportionsTrainload of Strikebreakers Arrived
Arrived This Afternoon To Take
The Places of The Strikers

NO VIOLENCE IS EXPECTED TO OCCUR

The railroad workers strike along the Pennsylvania division of the New York Central railroad appears to be assuming more alarming proportions and so far as we are able to learn the company seems to be determined to make the men come to their terms.

We are informed on the best of authority that the company is importing a colony of some two hundred strike breakers into the Clearfield yards from New York City and will put them to work in the places of the men who laid down their tools and walked out as a protest against the rate of wages being paid and in an attempt to force their demands for an increase.

These men are expected to arrive in Clearfield some time this afternoon as it is said the train crews necessary to haul them from Jersey Shore here were called for 8:35 this morning.

The representatives of the company here had a conference with Sheriff McCloskey at his office in the court house this morning and laid the facts of the coming of strike breakers before him officially and made a demand of him for protection in case of trouble from the striking workers when the new men arrived to take their places.

Sheriff McCloskey informs the railroad officials that he was as the chief peace officer of our county to furnish protection where such protection was necessary, but before any trouble arose or was threatening he was powerless to act.

As a measure of preparedness and as a matter of right public policy Sheriff McCloskey got into communication with G. W. Henderson, representative of the striking workmen, and acquainted him with the situation as it was given to him and asked to be advised as to the temper of the men and the possibility of trouble and Mr. Henderson advised him that there was no reason for alarm on the part of the company, that his men were all peaceable, law-abiding citizens, with a desire to reason out their difficulties instead of resorting to force to attain their end.

Mayor Callahan is also keeping in touch with the situation and is seeking some way of settling the difficulty, if it is possible to find a way before matters become too complicated and bad feeling is engendered.

The train bearing the two hundred strike breakers from a New York City employment agency, arrived at the N. Y. C. yards at 2:30 this afternoon.

That they expect to make quite a stay in our midst is borne out by the fact that the train equipment includes a complete commissary outfit including coals, provisions, etc., and it is reported that the men will live in the care until such time as they are moved out.

As we go to press everything is quiet and the striking employees are conducting themselves in a very orderly and peaceable manner.

Auto Manufacturers Refused to Sell Autos to Villa Agents

(By United Press)
Toledo, O., March 3.—"The activities of Germany in Mexico as revealed in the German plot letter were known by Detroit auto manufacturers months before the news was given to the public," Thomas McManus, of Toledo and Detroit and prominent advertising man declared here today. Pancho Villa's secretary and his brother were in Detroit recently trying to purchase 200 automobiles. They had plenty of money. They were unable to buy any as the manufacturers took the position that the sale would be unfair owing to the strained relations between the two countries. The secretary in one conference made the statement that Carranza was being financed by German money and Villa was receiving his backing from Japan. This information has been in the hands of the government at Washington for several days. The secretary made it plain that Villa had plenty of money and of course could secure the cars but had hoped to buy them at factory prices, said McManus.

Senator O'Gorman, Last of Silk
Hat Statesmen, Retires

Only Influential Tammany Man That Supported President Wilson From the First.

(By United Press)
Washington, March 3.—United States Senator O'Gorman of New York, the last of the silk hat statesmen of the old order, will close his public career when the Senate adjourns Monday night.

"I have completed an uninterrupted public service of 24 years," said the Senator today, "18 years as judge and 6 years as senator; and I must now give attention to my private affairs."

Senator O'Gorman was the only influential Tammany leader who supported Woodrow Wilson for the Presidency from the first. In the early days of Wilson's first administration he was very close to the President and regarded as his personal spokesman on both sides of the Capitol. Political differences later over the appointment of the Senator's son-in-law, Dudley Field Malone, as Collector of the Port of New York, caused O'Gorman to be less popular with the administration. Secretary McAdoo, President Wilson's son-in-law, wanted Frank Polk, now assistant Secretary of State, appointed to the place.

Basket Ball Team Had
Game of Football

Osceola Insisted on Playing Obsolete National Rules

Last night C. H. S. basketball team journeyed to Osceola. A basketball game was supposed to have been arranged with the Osceola High team but when the affair was staged it resembled the Bowler wrestling match, catch a cat style, more than a basketball game.

They didn't seem to know at Osceola that the only rule basketball is played under now, are the uniform A. A. U. rules, and that National rules are a thing of the past. So Osceola insisted that the game be played under National rules.

C. H. S. boys had heard, that at one time, there was such a thing as National rules, but had never played them. However to start the game, Coach Adams consented to play as Osceola wished.

The game was played on a slippery dance floor, which was hard to run on, so C. H. S. resorted to passing, which took the Osceola team off their feet and made them stand around in sort of a dazed manner. Then they would waken, and the whole team rush for the man with the ball.

Hugging, holding and tripping seemed to be all Osceola knew about basketball, and we are sorry to say the referee was in the same boat. Foul after foul was committed by both teams that were not called and the game soon resembled an indoor football game.

After the third fall, and the referee's decision given, C. H. S. was leading by the score of 23-10. In the last half only one foul was called.

When C. H. S. team left the fireman's hall where the battle was fought, about fifty of the towns progeny lined up and snowballed the boys all the way to the station. This unfriendly act and ungentlemanly conduct on the part of the Osceola boys is hard to understand and no doubt the school authorities there will have some explanation to make on it.

BRITONS WHO WON'T FIGHT
MUST GO TO JAIL TODAY

London, March 1.—Cells in Dartmoor prison today await conscientious objectors and others who refuse to fight for King and country from now on. The government heretofore has dealt leniently with the objectors, but after today they must either fight or be locked up. Dartmoor is the convict prison built in 1806 to hold the French prisoners. Two thousand American seamen who refused to serve as British sailors in the war of 1812, against their own country, were confined there too. Jeremiah Lynch of Irish rebellion notoriety was sentenced to 10 years there after the Sinn Fein uprising.

SPORTSMEN HOLD
ENTHUSIASTIC
SWAPFEST

Go On Record As Being Opposed To Any Changes In Game Or Fish Laws As They Stand

SUNDAY FISHING IS TABOOED

The meeting of sportsmen in the arbitration room of the court house last evening was largely attended and will result in giving concrete expression of the views of Clearfield county hunters and fishermen relative to the provisions of the new game and fish laws now being considered by the legislature at Harrisburg.

J. D. Connelly was made chairman and Lloyd Wrigley, secretary, and when the meeting was called to order the room was crowded with sportsmen ready to give their views and air their grievances toward the proposed new legislation.

Hon. G. W. Bell, who is a member of the game committee of the house, and an enthusiastic hunter, and Hon. Joseph E. Phillips, another Clearfield county member who hunts and fishes himself and was always interested in game legislation, were present and discussed the different laws now in process of enactment. Their presence and remarks were helpful and much appreciated by all present.

The proposed game law was taken up and the sections providing changes in the present law were discussed at length and after all had been read on motion of M. T. Bowman, of Clearfield, seconded by Joseph Snyder, of Kylertown, it was unanimously decided to ask the Clearfield county members of the legislature to vote and work to have all legislation defeated, which contemplated any change in the present game law. It was the common expression that the present law is alright, people generally and familiar with its provisions and requirements and as it has been working out most satisfactorily, should be let alone.

The chair was then empowered to appoint a committee to draft resolutions embodying the sentiment of the meeting regarding the different new features proposed for the game laws, these resolutions to be sent to the game committee at Harrisburg before the public hearing on the bill.

Representative Phillips said there was some talk at Harrisburg of combining the game and fish commissions and diverting a part of the hunter's license money sufficient to add at least ten new fish wardens to the list and have the game and fish wardens work together. In case this was done it would eliminate the proposed fish license law and it is believed that were a part of the hunter's license diverted for the propagation or protection of fish many fishermen would voluntarily take out a hunter's license.

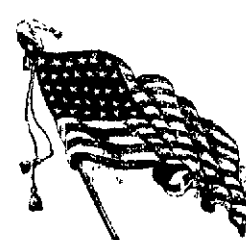

It was the sense of the meeting that one license should entitle a man to hunt and fish both and that it would be a hardship to impose a fishing license in addition and a resolution was passed asking our lawmakers to support the proposed combination of the two departments.

A resolution was also passed asking that the bird dog be eliminated.

A little ginger was injected into the proceedings at this point when the new fish law was brought up. Everybody was against a license for fishermen, but when it came to a question of whether or not Sunday fishing was a good thing for Pennsylvanians generally, it was soon discovered that there were two sides to that question and each side had its war paint on.

Representative Phillips and Bell, Ralph Jordan, Cleo Schonek and A. H. Deway and Commissioner Spencer were opposed to Sunday fishing, while Chief McHenry, Joe Sansone, Tony Adams and several others thought it would be alright. A vote was finally taken and Sunday fishing was knocked out by a vote of 23 to 18.

Every hunting camp in this section was represented at the meeting and the proposition of the game law brought the number of hunters to twelve in a crew and to the tagging of deer

Tokio, March 3.—That the letter written by foreign Secretary Zimmerman was designed to create distrust of Japan in the United States and to stir up trouble between the United States and Mexico was the view expressed by officials here today. The belief was stated that Germany did not expect the German-Japan-Mexican alliance as proposed in the letter from Zimmerman to the German minister at Mexico City to be a success. The sole aim of the move, officials here declare, was to sow seeds of discord among the nations of the Western Hemisphere and the Orient.

Officer Leavy Sent To
Curwensville Again

Youth of Little City Warned to Desist From Insulting Remarks

Juvenile Probation Officer Leavy appeared before Judge Bell yesterday and recommended that 17 juvenile offenders paroled in his custody for infractions of the law be paroled as the youngsters by their good conduct since being placed under the observation of the officer had so comforted themselves as to warrant their discharge from future surveillance. Judge Bell promptly made the necessary order giving the young men their liberty from further restraint.

Officer Leavy was sent to Curwensville yesterday by direction of the court to inquire into and attempt to break up the practice of a gang of young hoodlums, who it is alleged by the women complaining to the court, have been making it a practice of using vile and indecent language to women passing along the streets of the town. The officer went to our neighboring town and seeking out the complainants took up their complaints and attempted to impress upon the boys the necessity for more decorous conduct in the future to avoid a trip to Clearfield and a meeting with Judge Bell on the bench. This appears to be additional evidence of the fact that there is a regrettable moral condition among the youth of our sister town and if it be true should warrant the authorities and those in position to remedy such things in getting busy and improving things generally.

It Is Believed That Zimmerman And
Von Bernstorff Will be Made The
Goats Since The Plot Failed.

TO MAKE THE ACTIONS JUSTIFIABLE

Germany blandly admitted today that the Zimmerman to Eckhardt instructions were authentic and in the following semi-official statement strives to justify the project of embroiling the United States into war with Mexico and possibly involving Japan:

"After Germany reached the decision to wage unrestricted submarine warfare in view of the previous attitude of the United States we were compelled to recognize the possibility of a conflict with America. Then the subsequent severance of diplomatic relations by the United States and the request that all other neutrals join with the United States proved that our calculations were correct. Because we anticipated such a possibility we felt that it was our right and duty as a government to prevent the possible adherence of a new enemy to our enemies and accordingly the German minister to Mexico was instructed in the event of the United States declaring war to offer to the Mexican government an alliance and to arrange further details. The minister was instructed however not to make any promises unless he was absolutely certain that the United States was to declare war."

Speculation was rife today as to how the American government obtained the information regarding the Zimmerman letter. Dispatches from Mexico today stated that the "government had received no proposition of an alliance from the German government."

Dispatches from Ralph Turner United Press staff correspondent at Tokio today states that Count Motono declared that "the revelations illustrate under what mental delusions the German government is suffering as no proposition has been received by Japan."

Secretary Zimmerman admits himself after the discovery of the German plot "that the whole plot will fall flat to the ground even if the United States declares war against Germany."

Resignation of Zimmerman and the branding of von Bernstorff as a blunderer will follow the Zimmerman letter according to Dutch officials in close touch with German conditions.

Dispatches from Amsterdam declare that high officials believe that the show-down of the German plot is an "affrontment of German diplomacy."

A BREACH THAT WILL NOT HEAL

We learn with deep regret that strike breakers are to be used in the local railroad yard strike. It is unfortunate indeed that the men and the company cannot be brought together in that bond that will enable them to continue the good relations that have existed for years with local railroad labor. This is probably the first time that trouble of this nature has developed in a local railroad yard and shop and it no doubt presages more trouble of a more serious nature. Probably not immediately, but strikes with their attendant troubles always create an atmosphere of distrust and a business situation that never entirely heals.

TIME TELLS

Time tells a great many things. Time erases all the glamour of what we once thought was the only way to do things. We have to look back only about twelve years to recall how the lecture platform was almost entirely given over to the expositors of the German idea of efficiency and instruction. No county institute was complete without a couple of fellows telling us how they did it in Germany. We bought nothing in the line of tools, silver ware or toys unless it was stamped "Made in Germany." The favorite way of introducing a topic was—"In Germany they do so and so." German propaganda glared at us and we drank it in because it appealed to our sense of admiration for the correct and in minute detail.

Now we begin to see that Germany's mad race for power, prestige and grandeur has brought her into disrepute. She has stooped to do the most unspeakable things. All under guise of necessity. Today Germany admits her attempt to ally Mexico and Japan with her against the United States but attempts to explain it all away with her omnipotent pleas of justification.

SUNDAY FISHING

It is indeed a pleasure to note that the sportsmen present at the meeting last night in the arbitration room voted in favor of no change in the present hunting and fishing laws. It is more of a pleasure to record that those men, true sportsmen in every sense of the word, went on record as opposed to Sunday fishing.

While the religious issue is sufficient to condemn a law making it legal to fish on Sunday there is another phase of the question that speaks loud against it. Those who argue in favor of Sunday fishing give as their reason that they are employed six days in the week and that they are forced to forego the pleasure of fishing if not allowed to go on Sunday. The true sportsman will look on any matter effecting the game and fish laws from the angle of the welfare of the sport. All fishing and hunting depends on whether there is any fish or game to hunt. Did it ever occur to these sportsmen that, if Sunday fishing is legal—

Clearfield county would become the mecca every lay of auto loads by the thousands from nearby cities in a short time non residents of the county would be on to wonder where all their fish had gone to.

Any man who has the least inclination to fish or hunt will lose a day's work, or a week for that matter, to enjoy it. It has always been so and always will. Sunday fishing would make public property out of what naturally belongs to Clearfield Countians.

What Is Thrift?

The Standard dictionary defines thrift as "care and prudence in the management of one's resources."

Thrift is not merely saving money. It deals as much with spending. Recognizing that there are many necessary expenses, Thrift aims to eliminate waste, to reduce the unnecessary spending of money. Thrift aims to find the proper proportion between our earnings and our expenses.

No one need spend all he earns. Now, when wages are high, profits large, money plentiful, is the time to begin the cultivation of the Thrift Habit.

The officers of this bank will be glad to advise you in the cultivation of Thrift.

YOUR RESPONSIBILITY TO YOUR CITY

I have always tried to remember that this great land of the free was my land and that my state, New York, really did belong to me, also, that Manhattan was my city—that I was a part of it and responsible to it in every way.

Of course such a responsibility necessarily rests more heavily upon the men's shoulders than it does the women's, because of their right of franchise. Nevertheless women can not shun their duty. And perhaps some of you, in other states, have the privilege of voting.

The other day Ethel, Baby, Mother of Mine, and I went for a wonderful drive in our open machine. The day was clear, although a trifle cold, and we felt as though the fresh air would do all of us a world of good. First we went through the beautiful Central Park with its rustic lanes, lakes, fountains, monuments and statues. Then up the Drive along the beautiful Hudson river which tourists tell us is not rivalled by the historic Rhine in self. We passed "The Soldiers' and Sailors' Monument" and arrived at Grant's Tomb, a beautiful granite structure which overlooks the blue waters and the Palisades on the opposite shore.

"What a wonderful city our is!" exclaimed Ethel as we stopped for some refreshment at a quaint little tearoom which mother recommended. "Do you know, it is seldom that we really appreciate the beauties and wonders at our very door. Thank you for the ride, Anita, for it has awakened a more or less dormant pride for my home within me."

Oh, friends, be loyal to your home town first of all, and appreciate whatever beauties and comforts it possesses. Take an interest in its welfare and its improvement, for you owe it the responsibility of citizenship. Your town may not be the finest in the country, nor the richest, nor the most important, but you can always do your part toward making it the best to live in and toward increasing its attractions. And the foundation for this must be a wholesome pride in it for what it already possesses.

Everybody Got Out of His Way.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

A USEFUL WOLF AND A BEAR

(Adapted from Grimm's Fairy Tales.)

DADDY took two eager children on his lap and told them this story: "A young hunter sent his pet wolf to a king's kitchen to bring back some of the vegetables the king ate. Of course the wolf was not afraid of anybody, and when he reached the castle he walked right up to the king's daughter and pulled her dress till she looked at him.

"She recognized him by his collar. He was one of the pets that had helped save her from a dragon, you see. 'Dear wolf,' she cried, 'what do you want?' 'I want some of the king's table.' 'So she ordered the cook to prepare a dish of vegetables from her father's table and carry it to the inn. There the wolf took the dish and carried it to his master.

"See, now," cried the hunter to the innkeeper, 'I have bread, meat and vegetables from the king's table. Now I should like some of the sweetmeats such as the king eats.' 'So he called his pet bear and said: 'Dear bear, you like sweet things to eat. Fetch me some of the sweetmeats from the king's own table.' 'So the bear went trotting along to the castle, and you children may believe that everybody got out of his way. When he came to the sentries they tried to hold him up with the ends of their rifles, but he gave them such cuffs with his big paws that they all fell down like toy soldiers. Then he made his way straight to the king's daughter, went up behind her and made a little growl.

"She looked around and recognized him as one of the animals that had once helped to save her life. So she bade him follow her to her room, where she said, 'Dear bear, what can I do for you?' 'Said the bear, 'My master, who killed the dragon, is here and has sent me to ask you for some of the sweetmeats such as the king himself eats.' 'So the king's daughter sent for the royal confectioner and ordered him to prepare a dish of sweetmeats such as her father ate and to take them to the inn. There the bear joyfully licked up the little sugar balls that had fallen upon the ground. Then he took the dish of sweetmeats between his front paws and carried them to his master.

"See, now," said the hunter to his friend, the innkeeper, 'I have bread, meat, vegetable and sweetmeats from the king's own table. But I must have some wine such as the king himself drinks.' And saying that he called his pet lion, daddy ended.

MEAT INJURIOUS TO THE KIDNEYS

Take a tablespoonful of Salts if Back hurts or Bladder bothers.

We are a nation of meat eaters and our blood is filled with uric acid says a well-known authority, who warns us to be constantly on guard against kidney trouble.

The kidneys do their utmost to free the blood of this irritating acid, but become weak from overwork; they get sluggish; the eliminative tissues clog and thus the waste is retained in the blood to poison the entire system.

When your kidneys ache and feel like lumps of lead, and you have stinging pains in the back or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or the bladder is irritable, obliging you to seek relief during the night; when you have severe headaches, nervous and dizzy spells, sleeplessness, acid stomach or rheumatism in bad weather, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys, to neutralize the acids in urine so it is no longer a source of irritation, thus ending urinary and bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, and nobody can make a mistake by taking a little occasionally to keep the kidneys clean and active.

Lesson IX.—First Quarter, For March 4, 1917.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, John vi, 1-21—Memory Verses, 10, 11—Golden Text, Matt. vi, 11—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

This miracle of the feeding of 5,000 men, besides women and children, with a few loaves and fishes is the only miracle recorded in each of the four gospels and seems to me to set before us the one thing which believers ought to be doing, and that is to give the bread of life to every creature, for the gospel of God concerning His Son is a trust committed to us to use for the benefit of others, and if we are not faithful in the ministrations of the trust it will prove a serious matter for believers at the judgment seat of Christ. If any should ask, What can I do about it? let such remember that the bread and fish of this miracle came from a little boy and was possibly his lunch which his mother had given him, but it came into the hands of the Lord Jesus, and He multiplied it and used it. I believe these facts are the reason why of all that has been wrought in and through the church and Bible classes for over twenty-five years, for I asked Him to let me be like one of the boy's loaves, in His hands to be blessed and broken and passed on to help feed hungry thousands. And has He not wrought wondrously?

Any one who is willing He will accept and use as He shall see fit. The second part of our lesson, the telling disciples in the dark night with a contrary wind and He on the mountain praying is so suggestive of this whole age during which we are in the conflict with the world, the flesh and the devil, but He is at the right hand of the Father for us. He sees us toiling, and in the morning watch He will come, and we will be suddenly at our destination, forever with the Lord. It was Passover time, a great feast of the Lord to commemorate their deliverance from Egypt, but it had become merely a feast of the Jews. Not until Israel shall be delivered the second time and the nation be reborn and the Passover be fulfilled in the kingdom shall the whole world hear of the Living Bread, for then shall Israel blossom and bud and fill the face of the earth with fruit (Isa. xlviii, 6).

In the meantime we who are redeemed should be wholly occupied in giving the Bread of Life as far and as fast as possible to complete His church and bring the morning of His return. He is, as then, full of compassion toward the multitudes and is saying to us, "Give ye them to eat" (Matt. xiv, 18; Mark vi, 37; Luke ix, 13); but, like the disciples, many prefer to send them away as if it was no concern of ours. Some, like Philip and Andrew, talk of what might be done if we had the money or speak of what is in sight as wholly insufficient to accomplish anything, forgetting that the silver and the gold are His, and He always knows what He intends to do and how He is going to do it, and He cannot fail nor be discouraged, for He shall see of the travail of His soul and shall be satisfied (Isa. xlii, 4; Matt. xi, 11). He did not say that He would begin or make the attempt or endeavor to build His church, but He said, "I will build My church" (Matt. xvi, 18), and all His "I wills" are as good as accomplished, for every purpose of the Lord shall be performed, and no thought of His can be hindered (Ps. cxlii, 11; Isa. xiv, 24; Jer. li, 20; Job xlii, 2, margin). Instead of the people receiving each a little food, as Philip had suggested, they were all filled, and twelve baskets full remained over, for He would have all eat and drink abundantly (verses 1, 12, 18; Song v, 1). The limitations are all on our side, not on His, for He does everything abundantly, whether it be pardon or giving life or an entrance into His kingdom (Isa. lv, 7; John x, 10; II Pet. i, 11).

It does seem strange from our standpoint that the multitudes should be sent away in peace for a night of rest and those who had ministered to them be sent out into a night of tempest and toil and perplexity while He who knew all and did all and was full of compassion for all was away in the mountain alone talking over things with His Father. As we shall see in our next lesson (verse 57), and we cannot call too much attention to it, He ever lived by the living Father who had sent Him, and we are not as right as we might be in our daily life with Him unless He is all in all to us, as the Father was to Him (Col. iii, 11). His doings and leadings often cause us fear, but His word to His disciples is always: "Be of good cheer. It is I; be not afraid" (Matt. xiv, 27; Mark vi, 50). His own good cheer was His Father's absolutely perfect will, and when we can truly say that we always accept His will concerning us as perfect we shall walk on the waves of all circumstances without sinking, for His perfect love will cast out all fear, and He never gives a spirit of fear (I John, iv, 18; I Tim. i, 7). Inwardly we should always be saying, "Not I, but Christ," and concerning all things outward, whether people or circumstances, we may have grace to say, as Joseph did to his brethren, "It was not you, but God." We may continually dwell in God and in His love, singing "My home is God," and let Him dwell in us and work in us both to will and to do.

If the cold weather continues the Dartmouth-Pennsylvania dual meet may be changed from Hanover, N. H., to Springfield, Mass.

SAYS HOT WATER EACH DAY KEEPS THE DOCTOR AWAY

Drink glass of hot water before breakfast to wash out the Poisons

Life is not merely to live, but to live well, eat well, digest well, work well, sleep well, look well. What a glorious condition to attain, and yet how very easy it is if one will only adopt the morning inside bath.

Folks who are accustomed to feel dull and heavy when they arise splitting headache, stuffy from a cold, foul tongue, nasty breath, acid stomach, can, instead, feel as fresh as a daisy by opening the sluices of the system each morning and flushing out the whole of the internal poisonous stagnant matter.

Everyone, whether ailing, sick or well, should, each morning, before breakfast, drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour bile and poisonous toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach. The action of hot water and limestone phosphate on an empty stomach is wonderfully invigorating. It cleans out all the sour fermentation, gas, waste and acidity and gives one a splendid appetite for breakfast. While you are enjoying your breakfast the water and phosphate is quietly extracting a large volume of water from the blood and getting ready for a thorough flushing of all the inside organs.

The millions of people who are bothered with constipation, bilious spells, stomach trouble, rheumatism, others who have sallow skins, blood disorders and sickly complexions are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from the drug store which will cost but very little, but is sufficient to make anyone a pronounced crank on the subject of internal sanitation.

GERMANY ADMITS PART IN PLOT

Shopmen's Strike is
Assuming Larger
ProportionsTrainload of Strikebreakers Arrived
Arrived This Afternoon To Take
The Places of The Strikers

NO VIOLENCE IS EXPECTED TO OCCUR

The railroad workers strike along the Pennsylvania division of the New York Central railroad appears to be assuming more alarming proportions and so far as we are able to learn the company seems to be determined to make the men come to their terms.

We are informed on the best of authority that the company is importing a colony of some two hundred strike breakers into the Clearfield yards from New York City and will put them to work in the places of the men who laid down their tools and walked out as a protest against the rate of wages being paid and in an attempt to force their demands for an increase.

These men are expected to arrive in Clearfield some time this afternoon as it is said the train crews necessary to haul them from Jersey Shore here were called for 8:35 this morning.

The representatives of the company here had a conference with Sheriff McCloskey at his office in the court house this morning and laid the facts of the coming of strike breakers before him officially and made a demand of him for protection in case of trouble from the striking workers when the new men arrived to take their places.

Sheriff McCloskey informs the railroad officials that he was as the chief peace officer of our county to furnish protection where such protection was necessary, but before any trouble arose or was threatening he was powerless to act.

As a measure of preparedness and as a matter of right public policy Sheriff McCloskey got into communication with G. W. Henderson, representative of the striking workmen, and acquainted him with the situation as it was given to him and asked to be advised as to the temper of the men and the possibility of trouble and Mr. Henderson advised him that there was no reason for alarm on the part of the company, that his men were all peaceable, law-abiding citizens, with a desire to reason out their difficulties instead of resorting to force to attain their end.

Mayor Callahan is also keeping in touch with the situation and is seeking some way of settling the difficulty, if it is possible to find a way before matters become too complicated and bad feeling is engendered.

The train bearing the two hundred strike breakers from a New York City employment agency, arrived at the N. Y. C. yards at 2:30 this afternoon.

That they expect to make quite a stay in our midst is borne out by the fact that the train equipment includes a complete commissary outfit including coals, provisions, etc., and it is reported that the men will live in the care until such time as they are moved out.

As we go to press everything is quiet and the striking employees are conducting themselves in a very orderly and peaceable manner.

Auto Manufacturers Refused to Sell
Autos to Villa Agents

(By United Press)
Toledo, O., March 3.—"The activities of Germany in Mexico as revealed in the German plot letter were known by Detroit auto manufacturers months before the news was given to the public," Thomas McManus, of Toledo and Detroit and prominent advertising man declared here today. Pancho Villa's secretary and his brother were in Detroit recently trying to purchase 200 automobiles. They had plenty of money. They were unable to buy any as the manufacturers took the position that the sale would be unfair owing to the strained relations between the two countries. The secretary in one conference made the statement that Carranza was being financed by German money and Villa was receiving his backing from Japan. This information has been in the hands of the government at Washington for several days. The secretary made it plain that Villa had plenty of money and of course could secure the cars but had hoped to buy them at factory prices, said McManus.

Senator O'Gorman, Last of Silk

Only Influential Tammany Man That Supported President Wilson From the First.

(By United Press)
Washington, March 3.—United States Senator O'Gorman of New York, the last of the silk hat statesmen of the old order, will close his public career when the Senate adjourns Monday night.

"I have completed an uninterrupted public service of 24 years," said the Senator today, "18 years as judge and 6 years as senator; and I must now give attention to my private affairs."

Senator O'Gorman was the only influential Tammany leader who supported Woodrow Wilson for the Presidency from the first. In the early days of Wilson's first administration he was very close to the President and regarded as his personal spokesman on both sides of the Capitol.

Political differences later over the appointment of the Senator's son-in-law, Dudley Field Malone, as Collector of the Port of New York, caused O'Gorman to be less popular with the administration. Secretary McAdoo, President Wilson's son-in-law, wanted Frank Polk, now assistant Secretary of State, appointed to the place.

Basket Ball Team Had
Game of Football

Osceola Insisted on Playing Obsolete
National Rules

Last night C. H. S. basketball team journeyed to Osceola. A basketball game was supposed to have been arranged with the Osceola High team but when the affair was staged it resembled the Bowler wrestling match, catch a ball, catch a style, more than a basketball game.

They didn't seem to know at Osceola that the only rule basketball is played under now, are the uniform A. A. U. rules, and that National rules are a thing of the past. So Osceola insisted that the game be played under National rules.

C. H. S. boys had heard, that at one time, there was such a thing as National rules, but had never played them. However to start the game, Coach Adams consented to play as Osceola wished.

The game was played on a slippery dance floor, which was hard to run on, so C. H. S. resorted to passing, which took the Osceola team off their feet and made them stand around in sort of a dazed manner. Then they would waken, and the whole team rush for the man with the ball.

Hugging, holding and tripping seemed to be all Osceola knew about basketball, and we are sorry to say the referee was in the same boat. Foul after foul was committed by both teams that were not called and the game soon resembled an indoor football game.

After the third fall, and the referee's decision given, C. H. S. was leading by the score of 23-10. In the last half only one foul was called.

When C. H. S. team left the fireman's hall where the battle was fought, about fifty of the towns progeny lined up and snowballed the boys all the way to the station. This unfriendly act and ungentlemanly conduct on the part of the Osceola boys is hard to understand and no doubt the school authorities there will have some explanation to make on it.

BRITONS WHO WON'T FIGHT

London, March 1.—Cells in Dartmoor prison today await conscientious objectors and others who refuse to fight for King and country from now on. Two thousand American seamen who refused to serve as British sailors in the war of 1812, against their own country, were confined there too. Jeremiah Lynch of Irish rebellion notoriety was sentenced to 10 years there after the Sinn Fein uprising.

SPORTSMEN HOLD
ENTHUSIASTIC
SWAPFESTGo On Record As Being Opposed
To Any Changes In Game Or Fish Laws As They Stand

SUNDAY FISHING IS TABOOED

The meeting of sportsmen in the arbitration room of the court house last evening was largely attended and will result in giving concrete expression of the views of Clearfield county hunters and fishermen relative to the provisions of the new game and fish laws now being considered by the legislature at Harrisburg.

J. D. Connelly was made chairman and Lloyd Wrigley, secretary, and when the meeting was called to order the room was crowded with sportsmen ready to give their views and air their grievances toward the proposed new legislation.

Hon. G. W. Bell, who is a member of the game committee of the house, and an enthusiastic hunter, and Hon. Joseph E. Phillips, another Clearfield county member who hunts and fishes himself and was always interested in game legislation, were present and discussed the different laws now in process of enactment. Their presence and remarks were helpful and much appreciated by all present.

The proposed game law was taken up and the sections providing changes in the present law were discussed at length and after all had been read on motion of M. T. Bowman, of Clearfield, seconded by Joseph Snyder, of Kybertown, it was unanimously decided to ask the Clearfield county members of the legislature to vote and work to have all legislation defeated, which contemplated any change in the present game law. It was the common expression that the present law is alright, people generally and familiar with its provisions and requirements and as it has been working out most satisfactorily, should be let alone.

The chair was then empowered to appoint a committee to draft resolutions embodying the sentiment of the meeting regarding the different new features proposed for the game laws, these resolutions to be sent to the game committee at Harrisburg before the public hearing on the bill.

Representative Phillips said there was some talk at Harrisburg of combining the game and fish commissions and diverting a part of the hunter's license money sufficient to add at least ten new fish wardens to the list and have the game and fish wardens work together. In case this was done it would eliminate the proposed fish license law and it is believed that were a part of the hunter's license diverted for the propagation or protection of fish many fishermen would voluntarily take out a hunter's license.

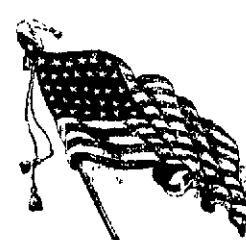

It was the sense of the meeting that one license should entitle a man to hunt and fish both and that it would be a hardship to impose a fishing license in addition and a resolution was passed asking our lawmakers to support the proposed combination of the two departments.

A resolution was also passed asking that the bird dog be eliminated.

A little ginger was injected into the proceedings at this point when the new fish law was brought up. Everybody was against a license for fishermen, but when it came to a question of whether or not Sunday fishing was a good thing for Pennsylvanians generally, it was soon discovered that there were two sides to that question and each side had its war paint on.

Representative Phillips and Bell, Ralph Jordan, Cleo Schonek and A. H. Deway and Commissioner Spencer were opposed to Sunday fishing, while Chief McHenry, Joe Sansone, Tony Adams and several others thought it would be alright. A vote was finally taken and Sunday fishing was knocked out by a vote of 23 to 18.

Every hunting camp in this section was represented at the meeting and the proposition of the game law brought the number of hunters to twelve in a crew and to the tagging of deer

Tokio, March 3.—That the letter written by foreign Secretary Zimmerman was designed to create distrust of Japan in the United States and to stir up trouble between the United States and Mexico was the view expressed by officials here today. The belief was stated that Germany did not expect the German-Japan-Mexican alliance as proposed in the letter from Zimmerman to the German minister at Mexico City to be a success. The sole aim of the move, officials here declare, was to sow seeds of discord among the nations of the Western Hemisphere and the Orient.

Officer Leavy Sent To
Curwensville Again

Youth of Little City Warned to Desist
From Insulting Remarks

Juvenile Probation Officer Leavy appeared before Judge Bell yesterday and recommended that 17 juvenile offenders paroled in his custody for infractions of the law be paroled as the youngsters by their good conduct since being placed under the observation of the officer had so comforted themselves as to warrant their discharge from future surveillance. Judge Bell promptly made the necessary order giving the young men their liberty from further restraint.

Officer Leavy was sent to Curwensville yesterday by direction of the court to inquire into and attempt to break up the practice of a gang of young hoodlums, who it is alleged by the women complaining to the court, have been making it a practice of using vile and indecent language to women passing along the streets of the town. The officer went to our neighboring town and seeking out the complainants took up their complaints and attempted to impress upon the boys the necessity for more decorous conduct in the future to avoid a trip to Clearfield and a meeting with Judge Bell on the bench. This appears to be additional evidence of the fact that there is a regrettable moral condition among the youth of our sister town and if it be true should warrant the authorities and those in position to remedy such things in getting busy and improving things generally.

It Is Believed That Zimmerman And
Von Bernstorff Will be Made The
Goats Since The Plot Failed.

TO MAKE THE ACTIONS JUSTIFIABLE

Germany blandly admitted today that the Zimmerman to Eckhardt instructions were authentic and in the following semi-official statement strives to justify the project of embroiling the United States into war with Mexico and possibly involving Japan:

"After Germany reached the decision to wage unrestricted submarine warfare in view of the previous attitude of the United States we were compelled to recognize the possibility of a conflict with America. Then the subsequent severance of diplomatic relations by the United States and the request that all other neutrals join with the United States proved that our calculations were correct. Because we anticipated such a possibility we felt that it was our right and duty as a government to prevent the possible adhesion of a new enemy to our enemies and accordingly the German minister to Mexico was instructed in the event of the United States declaring war to offer to the Mexican government an alliance and to arrange further details. The minister was instructed however not to make any proffer unless he was absolutely certain that the United States was to declare war."

Speculation was rife today as to how the American government obtained the information regarding the Zimmerman letter. Dispatches from Mexico today stated that the "government" had received no proposition of an alliance from the German government.

Dispatches from Ralph Turner United Press staff correspondent at Tokio today states that Count Motono declared that "the revelations illustrate under what mental delusions the German government is suffering as no proposition has been received by Japan."

Secretary Zimmerman admits himself after the discovery of the German plot "that the whole plot will fall flat to the ground even if the United States declares war against Germany."

Resignation of Zimmerman and the branding of von Bernstorff as a blunderer will follow the Zimmerman letter according to Dutch officials in close touch with German conditions.

Dispatches from Amsterdam declare that high officials believe that the show-down of the German plot is an "affrontment of German diplomacy."

Making Chemist of Her Husband

(By United Press)

San Francisco, March 3.—Mrs. Esther Bernovitz Kehoe is sending her husband to college today because she believes in business efficiency. She is a designer for a tailoring company.

If a woman discovers she can earn more than her husband, says Mrs. Kehoe, the husband should be educated to such an extent that his earning ability is equal to that of his wife. And while hubby is getting this education, wife should support the family, she believes.

"I see nothing out of the ordinary in our arrangement," she said today. "The situation was like this: I was getting a better salary than my husband. So we thought it best that he

A BREACH THAT WILL NOT HEAL

We learn with deep regret that strike breakers are to be used in the local railroad yard strike. It is unfortunate indeed that the men and the company cannot be brought together in that bond that will enable them to continue the good relations that have existed for years with local railroad labor. This is probably the first time that trouble of this nature has developed in a local railroad yard and shop and it no doubt presages more trouble of a more serious nature. Probably not immediately, but strikes with their attendant troubles always create an atmosphere of distrust and a business situation that never entirely heals.

TIME TELLS

Time tells a great many things. Time erases all the glamour of what we once thought was the only way to do things. We have to look back only about twelve years to recall how the lecture platform was almost entirely given over to the expositors of the German idea of efficiency and instruction. No county institute was complete without a couple of fellows telling us how they did it in Germany. We bought nothing in the line of tools, silver ware or toys unless it was stamped "Made in Germany." The favorite way of introducing a topic was—"In Germany they do so and so." German propaganda glared at us and we drank it in because it appealed to our sense of admiration for the correct and in minute detail.

Now we begin to see that Germany's mad race for power, prestige and grandeur has brought her into disrepute. She has stooped to do the most unspeakable things. All under guise of necessity. Today Germany admits her attempt to ally Mexico and Japan with her against the United States but attempts to explain it all away with her omnipotent pleas of justification.

SUNDAY FISHING

It is indeed a pleasure to note that the sportsmen present at the meeting last night in the arbitration room voted in favor of no change in the present hunting and fishing laws. It is more of a pleasure to record that those men, true sportsmen in every sense of the word, went on record as opposed to Sunday fishing.

While the religious issue is sufficient to condemn a law making it legal to fish on Sunday there is another phase of the question that speaks loud against it. Those who argue in favor of Sunday fishing give as their reason that they are employed six days in the week and that they are forced to forego the pleasure of fishing if not allowed to go on Sunday. The true sportsman will look on any matter effecting the game and fish laws from the angle of the welfare of the sport. All fishing and hunting depends on whether there is any fish or game to hunt. Did it ever occur to these sportsmen that, if Sunday fishing is legal—

Clearfield county would become the mecca every lay of auto loads by the thousands from nearby cities in a short time non residents of the county would be on to wonder where all their fish had gone to.

Any man who has the least inclination to fish or hunt will lose a day's work, or a week for that matter, to enjoy it. It has always been so and always will. Sunday fishing would make public property out of what naturally belongs to Clearfield Countians.

What Is Thrift?

The Standard dictionary defines thrift as "care and prudence in the management of one's resources."

Thrift is not merely saving money. It deals as much with spending. Recognizing that there are many necessary expenses, Thrift aims to eliminate waste, to reduce the unnecessary spending of money. Thrift aims to find the proper proportion between our earnings and our expenses.

No one need spend all he earns. Now, when wages are high, profits large, money plentiful, is the time to begin the cultivation of the Thrift Habit.

The officers of this bank will be glad to advise you in the cultivation of Thrift.

YOUR RESPONSIBILITY TO YOUR CITY

I have always tried to remember that this great land of the free was my land and that my state, New York, really did belong to me, also, that Manhattan was my city—that I was a part of it and responsible to it in every way.

Of course such a responsibility necessarily rests more heavily upon the men's shoulders than it does the women's, because of their right of franchise. Nevertheless women can not shun their duty. And perhaps some of you, in other states, have the privilege of voting.

The other day Ethel, Baby, Mother of Mine, and I went for a wonderful drive in our open machine. The day was clear, although a trifle cold, and we felt as though the fresh air would do all of us a world of good. First we went through the beautiful Central Park with its rustic lanes, lakes, fountains, monuments and statues. Then up the Drive along the beautiful Hudson river which tourists tell us is not rivalled by the historic Rhine in self. We passed "The Soldiers' and Sailors' Monument" and arrived at Grant's Tomb, a beautiful granite structure which overlooks the blue waters and the Palisades on the opposite shore.

"What a wonderful city our is!" exclaimed Ethel as we stopped for some refreshment at a quaint little tearoom which mother recommended. "Do you know, it is seldom that we really appreciate the beauties and wonders at our very door. Thank you for the ride, Anita, for it has awakened a more or less dormant pride for my home within me."

Oh, friends, be loyal to your home town first of all, and appreciate whatever beauties and comforts it possesses. Take an interest in its welfare and its improvement, for you owe it the responsibility of citizenship. Your town may not be the finest in the country, nor the richest, nor the most important, but you can always do your part toward making it the best to live in and toward increasing its attractions. And the foundation for this must be a wholesome pride in it for what it already possesses.

Everybody Got Out of His Way.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

A USEFUL WOLF AND A BEAR

(Adapted from Grimm's Fairy Tales.)

DADDY took two eager children on his lap and told them this story: "A young hunter sent his pet wolf to a king's kitchen to bring back some of the vegetables the king ate. Of course the wolf was not afraid of anybody, and when he reached the castle he walked right up to the king's daughter and pulled her dress till she looked at him.

"She recognized him by his collar. He was one of the pets that had helped save her from a dragon, you see. 'Dear wolf,' she cried, 'what do you want?' 'I want some of the king's table,' said the wolf, who killed the dragon, is here and wants some of the vegetables from the king's table."

"So she ordered the cook to prepare a dish of vegetables from her father's table and carry it to the inn. There the wolf took the dish and carried it to his master."

"See, now," cried the hunter to the innkeeper, "I have bread, meat and vegetables from the king's table. Now I should like some of the sweetmeats such as the king eats."

"So he called his pet bear and said: 'Dear bear, you like sweet things to eat. Fetch me some of the sweetmeats from the king's own table.'

"So the bear went trotting along to the castle, and you children may believe that everybody got out of his way. When he came to the sentries they tried to hold him up with the ends of their rifles, but he gave them such cuffs with his big paws that they all fell down like toy soldiers. Then he made his way straight to the king's daughter, went up behind her and made a little growl.

"She looked around and recognized him as one of the animals that had once helped to save her life. So she bade him follow her to her room, where she said, 'Dear bear, what can I do for you?'

"Said the bear, 'My master, who killed the dragon, is here and has sent me to ask you for some of the sweetmeats such as the king himself eats.'

"So the king's daughter sent for the royal confectioner and ordered him to prepare a dish of sweetmeats such as her father ate and to take them to the inn.

"There the bear joyfully licked up the little sugar balls that had fallen upon the ground. Then he took the dish of sweetmeats between his front paws and carried them to his master."

"See, now," said the hunter to his friend, the innkeeper, "I have bread, meat, vegetable and sweetmeats from the king's own table. But I must have some wine such as the king himself drinks! And saying that he called his pet lion, daddy ended."

MEAT INJURIOUS TO THE KIDNEYS

Take a tablespoonful of Salts if Back hurts or Bladder bothers.

We are a nation of meat eaters and our blood is filled with uric acid says a well-known authority, who warns us to be constantly on guard against kidney trouble.

The kidneys do their utmost to free the blood of this irritating acid, but become weak from overwork; they get sluggish; the eliminative tissues clog and thus the waste is retained in the blood to poison the entire system.

When your kidneys ache and feel like lumps of lead, and you have stinging pains in the back or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or the bladder is irritable, obliging you to seek relief during the night; when you have severe headaches, nervous and dizzy spells, sleeplessness, acid stomach or rheumatism in bad weather, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys, to neutralize the acids in urine so it is no longer a source of irritation, thus ending urinary and bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, and nobody can make a mistake by taking a little occasionally to keep the kidneys clean and active.

SUNDAY SCHOOL.

Lesson IX.—First Quarter, For March 4, 1917.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, John vi, 1-21—Memory Verses, 10, 11—Golden Text, Matt. vi, 11—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

This miracle of the feeding of 5,000 men, besides women and children, with a few loaves and fishes is the only miracle recorded in each of the four gospels and seems to me to set before us the one thing which believers ought to be doing, and that is to give the bread of life to every creature, for the gospel of God concerning His Son is a trust committed to us to use for the benefit of others, and if we are not faithful in the ministrations of the trust it will prove a serious matter for believers at the judgment seat of Christ. If any should ask, What can I do about it? let such remember that the bread and fish of this miracle came from a little boy and was possibly his lunch which his mother had given him, but it came into the hands of the Lord Jesus, and He multiplied it and used it. I believe these facts are the reason why of all that has been wrought in and through the church and Bible classes for over twenty-five years, for I asked Him to let me be like one of the boy's loaves, in His hands to be blessed and broken and passed on to help feed hungry thousands. And has He not wrought wondrously?

Any one who is willing He will accept and use as He shall see fit. The second part of our lesson, the telling disciples in the dark night with a contrary wind and He on the mountain praying is so suggestive of this whole age during which we are in the conflict with the world, the flesh and the devil, but He is at the right hand of the Father for us. He sees us toiling, and in the morning watch He will come, and we will be suddenly at our destination, forever with the Lord. It was Passover time, a great feast of the Lord to commemorate their deliverance from Egypt, but it had become merely a feast of the Jews. Not until Israel shall be delivered the second time and the nation be reborn and the Passover be fulfilled in the kingdom shall the whole world hear of the Living Bread, for then shall Israel blossom and bud and fill the face of the earth with fruit (Isa. xlviii, 6).

In the meantime we who are redeemed should be wholly occupied in giving the Bread of Life as far and as fast as possible to complete His church and bring the morning of His return. He is, as then, full of compassion toward the multitudes and is saying to us, "Give ye them to eat" (Matt. xiv, 18; Mark vi, 37; Luke ix, 13); but, like the disciples, many prefer to send them away as if it was no concern of ours. Some, like Philip and Andrew, talk of what might be done if we had the money or speak of what is in sight as wholly insufficient to accomplish anything, forgetting that the silver and the gold are His, and He always knows what He intends to do and how He is going to do it, and He cannot fail nor be discouraged, for He shall see of the travail of His soul and shall be satisfied (Isa. xlii, 4; lili, 11). He did not say that He would begin or make the attempt or endeavor to build His church, but He said, "I will build My church" (Matt. xvi, 18), and all His "I wills" are as good as accomplished, for every purpose of the Lord shall be performed, and no thought of His can be hindered (Ps. cxlii, 11; Isa. xiv, 24; Jer. li, 20; Job xlii, 2, margin). Instead of the people receiving each a little food, as Philip had suggested, they were all filled, and twelve baskets full remained over, for He would have all eat and drink abundantly (verses 1, 12, 18; Song v, 1). The limitations are all on our side, not on His, for He does everything abundantly, whether it be pardon or giving life or an entrance into His kingdom (Isa. lv, 7; John x, 10; II Pet. i, 11).

It does seem strange from our standpoint that the multitudes should be sent away in peace for a night of rest and those who had ministered to them be sent out into a night of tempest and toil and perplexity while He who knew all and did all and was full of compassion for all was away in the mountain alone talking over things with His Father. As we shall see in our next lesson (verse 57), and we cannot call too much attention to it, He ever lived by the living Father who had sent Him, and we are not as right as we might be in our daily life with Him unless He is all in all to us, as the Father was to Him (Col. iii, 11). His doings and leadings often cause us fear, but His word to His disciples is always: "Be of good cheer. It is I; be not afraid" (Matt. xiv, 27; Mark vi, 50). His own good cheer was His Father's absolutely perfect will, and when we can truly say that we always accept His will concerning us as perfect we shall walk on the waves of all circumstances without sinking, for His perfect love will cast out all fear, and He never gives a spirit of fear (I John. iv, 18; II Tim. i, 7). Inwardly we should always be saying, "Not I, but Christ," and concerning all things outward, whether people or circumstances, we may have grace to say, as Joseph did to his brethren, "It was not you, but God." We may continually dwell in God and in His love, singing "My home is God," and let Him dwell in us and work in us both to will and to do.

If the cold weather continues the Dartmouth-Pennsylvania dual meet may be changed from Hanover, N. H., to Springfield, Mass.

SAYS HOT WATER EACH DAY KEEPS THE DOCTOR AWAY

Drink glass of hot water before breakfast to wash out the Poisons

Life is not merely to live, but to live well, eat well, digest well, work well, sleep well, look well. What a glorious condition to attain, and yet how very easy it is if one will only adopt the morning inside bath.

Folks who are accustomed to feel dull and heavy when they arise splitting headache, stuffy from a cold, foul tongue, nasty breath, acid stomach, can, instead, feel as fresh as a daisy by opening the sluices of the system each morning and flushing out the whole of the internal poisonous stagnant matter.

Everyone, whether ailing, sick or well, should, each morning, before breakfast, drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour bile and poisonous toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach. The action of hot water and limestone phosphate on an empty stomach is wonderfully invigorating. It cleans out all the sour fermentation, gas, waste and acidity and gives one a splendid appetite for breakfast. While you are enjoying your breakfast the water and phosphate is quietly extracting a large volume of water from the blood and getting ready for a thorough flushing of all the inside organs.

The millions of people who are bothered with constipation, bilious spells, stomach trouble, rheumatism, others who have sallow skins, blood disorders and sickly complexions are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from the drug store which will cost but very little, but is sufficient to make anyone a pronounced crank on the subject of internal sanitation.

New York, March 3.—The present week witnessed the commencement of the work of tearing down the Sing Sing penitentiary, one of the oldest and undoubtedly the most famous prison in America. In the course of the antiquated prison buildings, with their unsanitary cell blocks, are to be replaced by structures planned in accordance with the ideas of the modern penologist. The work of demolishing the old buildings and constructing the new will proceed at the same time. It is expected that the completion of the new prison will occupy about five years. Practically all of the work will be performed by prison labor.

The Whatchama ColumnTEA

Tea used to be a strong virulent drink. But today it is so weak it has to ride to the dining room on a thirty dollar wagon.

We owe some department store that much besides a debt of gratitude for supporting our share of the now pany and decept beverage of the table.

We know a man who frequently drives his wife into a blind rage by saying:

"Apnes, if the tea isn't able to be up and around today you might wher us in a cup."

One of these days she'll hit him with the wagon.

SAVE THE BABIES

These are authentic quotations from the pamphlet on babies by Dr. L. H. Holt of Columbia University and Dr. Henry J. K. Shaw of Union University.

Throw away what baby does not eat. If he is constipated, give him one to three tablespoonful of strained fruit juice daily, after he is 7 or 8 months old. At 9 months, he may have a trained beef juice, beef tea or plain mutton or chicken broth, once a day. At 10 months he may have part of a soft egg, a small piece of crisp toast or zwieback or a crust of bread to chew, immediately after feeding. Other foods should not be given during the first year. At 12 months he may take his milk undiluted and a solid cereal twice a day.

"WHERE LOVE LEADS"

Special at the Globe Theatre Monday

Richard Warren saves the life of Marion Barstow. They fall in love. Warren, a popular college man, is looked upon as the greatest hope of winning the Thanksgiving football game.

Fred Mason, substitute on the eleven for Warren, is approached by Duke Canton, who plots to throw Warren out of the game. But the plan miscarries. Warren wins the game and Mason is disgraced publicly. Kennedy Barstow, Marion's father gives a dance in honor of the players at which Marion meets Su Rankin that worth, an impoverished Earl Marion's father is wealthy. Su Rankin proposes to Marion. At the same dance Warren proposes to her, she admits her love but tells him first to get the permission of her parents. The father refuses Warren's request.

Then Warren goes to work as a newspaper reporter. The editor tells him his stories must have more "punch"—"human interest." Warren is too "love sick" to write. In the meantime Su Rankin has succeeded in securing Marion's hand. They are married and sail for England.

Seventeen years later finds Marion neglected by her British husband. She has two daughters, Kathleen and Rose. Marion sends them to visit their grandparents in America. She instructs their care on the trip to Camille Dore, posing as a decent woman, but in reality an inhabitant of the "under world." Camille prevents the grandparents from meeting the girls, and brings them to her house.

By chance Warren's work brings him to Camille's house, where he meets the girl prisoners, the daughters of his former sweetheart. He learns their identity and rescues them.

Then Warren awakes! He has fallen asleep at his typewriter in the newspaper "shop" and beside him stands Marion who exclaims she will marry him anyway. The adventures were all a dream.

"What a fine 'human interest' picture this will make," he says.

Increase the brilliancy of your headlights by having the reflectors refinished. If you use the non-glaring lenses you'll appreciate having a stronger light.

Scouring preparations roughen the surface of the reflectors which absorb the light rays. Our process produces a hard finish thus deflecting the rays of light where they should go.

You may avoid many a bump and jar by having your auto headlights refinished.
